

Icons at last!

12 Nov 2008 by Jancis Robinson

This is just to point out that the long-awaited print, send to a friend and save as a PDF icons are at last appearing top right of our articles after an absence of more than two months since we launched the new site design.

Hallelujah!

Some time ago, we asked some of the many of you who complimented us on the new design whether we could quote you. You all said yes, except for one purple pager who said yes, so long as my beloved print icon is restored. You are fore-warned that we will now be publishing a compilation of these comments.

(This picture, by the way, is designed to accompany our Jancis recommends category which is so far extremely small. I shall add one great travel recommendation any minute...)