

Many apologies...

5 Sep 2006 by JR

The site was overcome by our enthusiasm to load new material earlier today and many purple pagers will have been frustrated by its inability to recognise your usernames and passwords.

Please accept our apologies for this temporary breakdown in service. We will do our very best to maintain full, uninterrupted service over the next few days as we switch to a new, more powerful platform capable of satisfying what we hope is your desire for more, yet more information and opinion about our favourite subject.