

Join me for a wine tasting in London on May 18

24 Apr 2006 by JR

My younger daughter and some of her schoolmates at South Hampstead High School are planning a World Challenge

Expedition to Vietnam next year and I have been asked to help them raise the necessary funds for what seems like a very worthwhile venture. As well as building their characters, the expedition is designed to help build schools etc in Vietnam (see my previous article on this pressing need in Hanoi)

I am accordingly holding a limited tasting of some of my favourite suggestions for summer drinking on the evening of Thursday 18 May at South Hampstead School, London NW3. We'll gather from 7pm, and at 7.30 spend an hour or so tasting my chosen wines, followed by questions and will then fall on some equally handpicked cheese very kindly supplied by Marylebone cheese specialist Patricia Michaelson of La Fromagerie.

I haven't yet decided on the wines but they will be useful, superior and genuinely interesting wines for daily drinking rather than fine wine rarities, as is perhaps evident from what I hope you agree is a very reasonable ticket price (£25 a head) for an evening out.

Please come and try to the heady combination of handpicked wines, handpicked cheeses and revived memories of the school gym.
