

Dinner for six at The Harrow on offer

11 Mar 2007 by JR

Purple pages and now Michelin-starred restaurateur Roger Jones of the Harrow (not as previously stated 'The Harrow Inn') in Little Baddley near Hungerford in Berkshire has very kindly offered a meal for six with fine Australian wines at his lovely restaurant to be auctioned in aid of Jazz Relief.

Roger is a regular, valuable and useful contributor to members' forums (see recently for example Favourite Cheeses 1998 at The Inn and Jazz Relief auction

) as well as sending us a series of reports on his recent trip around Australia both in The Inn and Tastemania. I can't think of any restaurateur outside Australia who knows more about Australian wine (there's a challenge for you!) and Michele don't hand out stars willingly. So you can be pretty certain that this meal will be exceptional (see sample menu below) - and you will of course get a specially warm welcome for making such a generous donation to

Wine Retail

Let me get the ball rolling by bidding 5000 myself. You have until midnight on Red Nose Day, the Friday Mar 16, to submit me and place the winning bid for what I'm sure will be a sensational feast.

Just add your bid in the box below with your name and email address. I will delete all the email addresses read weekend so as to minimise the risk of your details being harvested by unscrupulous spammers but let me know when you post your bid if you would prefer me to delete your email address before then.

Get bidding please!
